So Glad You Are Here

If you've made it this far, you must have really envisioned working together! There is no better compliment I could receive than someone who wants me to document their senior year.

I began shooting when I was just a girl, with tons of ambition wanting to create something meaningful. Now, 9 years later I am able to create meaningful work as a job... what more could I ask for? Senior photos are not just something I do as a business, but as a mission. Without a mission there is no passion and reasoning to do something.

As a young girl, I grew up with insecurity about my personality as well as my looks. I was always trying to chase a version of myself that was not aligned with who I am made to be. This "version" I strived for was utter perfection. I now know that my imperfections are what make me who I am. I tell you these things not for you to feel sorrow, but to understand why I am here today doing what I do.

As mentioned before, I have a job with an important mission. It is to young women, like you, build confidence and self discovery. I want these photographs to show your radiance shining from within. This is only the beginning. Let's create something amazing, together!

FAQ

Q: How will I receive my images?

A: Images will be sent digitally in an online gallery through my website. The gallery allows you to select from a collection of images taken from our shoot.

Q: How long will it take to receive my images?

A: Images will be given back within in 2-3 weeks from the day of our shoot.
If you would want these images at a faster turnaround time, a rush fee would be added.

Q: What happens if it is raining/overcast on the day of the shoot?

A: If the weather is not as promised on the day we scheduled, let's reschedule. I believe sunshine adds so much embellishment and character to photographs. However, If it is overcast and you have a strict deadline you need to meet, we can stick to the original date!
